Log Analytics by Motorola Solutions

Motorola Solutions Log Analytics function collects log data from systems, applications, networking components, security systems, and even other SIEM solutions. Several analytics components and security policies process log data to identify policy violations and suspicious activity. If a security event of interest that may represent a threat, it will alert analysts based on Customer's settings.