LIABILITY REDUCTION

CASE LAW: WAKEFIELD VS. THOMPSON (§ 1983)

This case proved that correctional facilities have a duty to provide release medication to all offenders as part of their medical obligation.

DID YOU FULFILL YOUR DUTY?

If you can not be sure that you provided everyone with their release medications you did not fulfill your obligation, thus exposing yourself to liability.

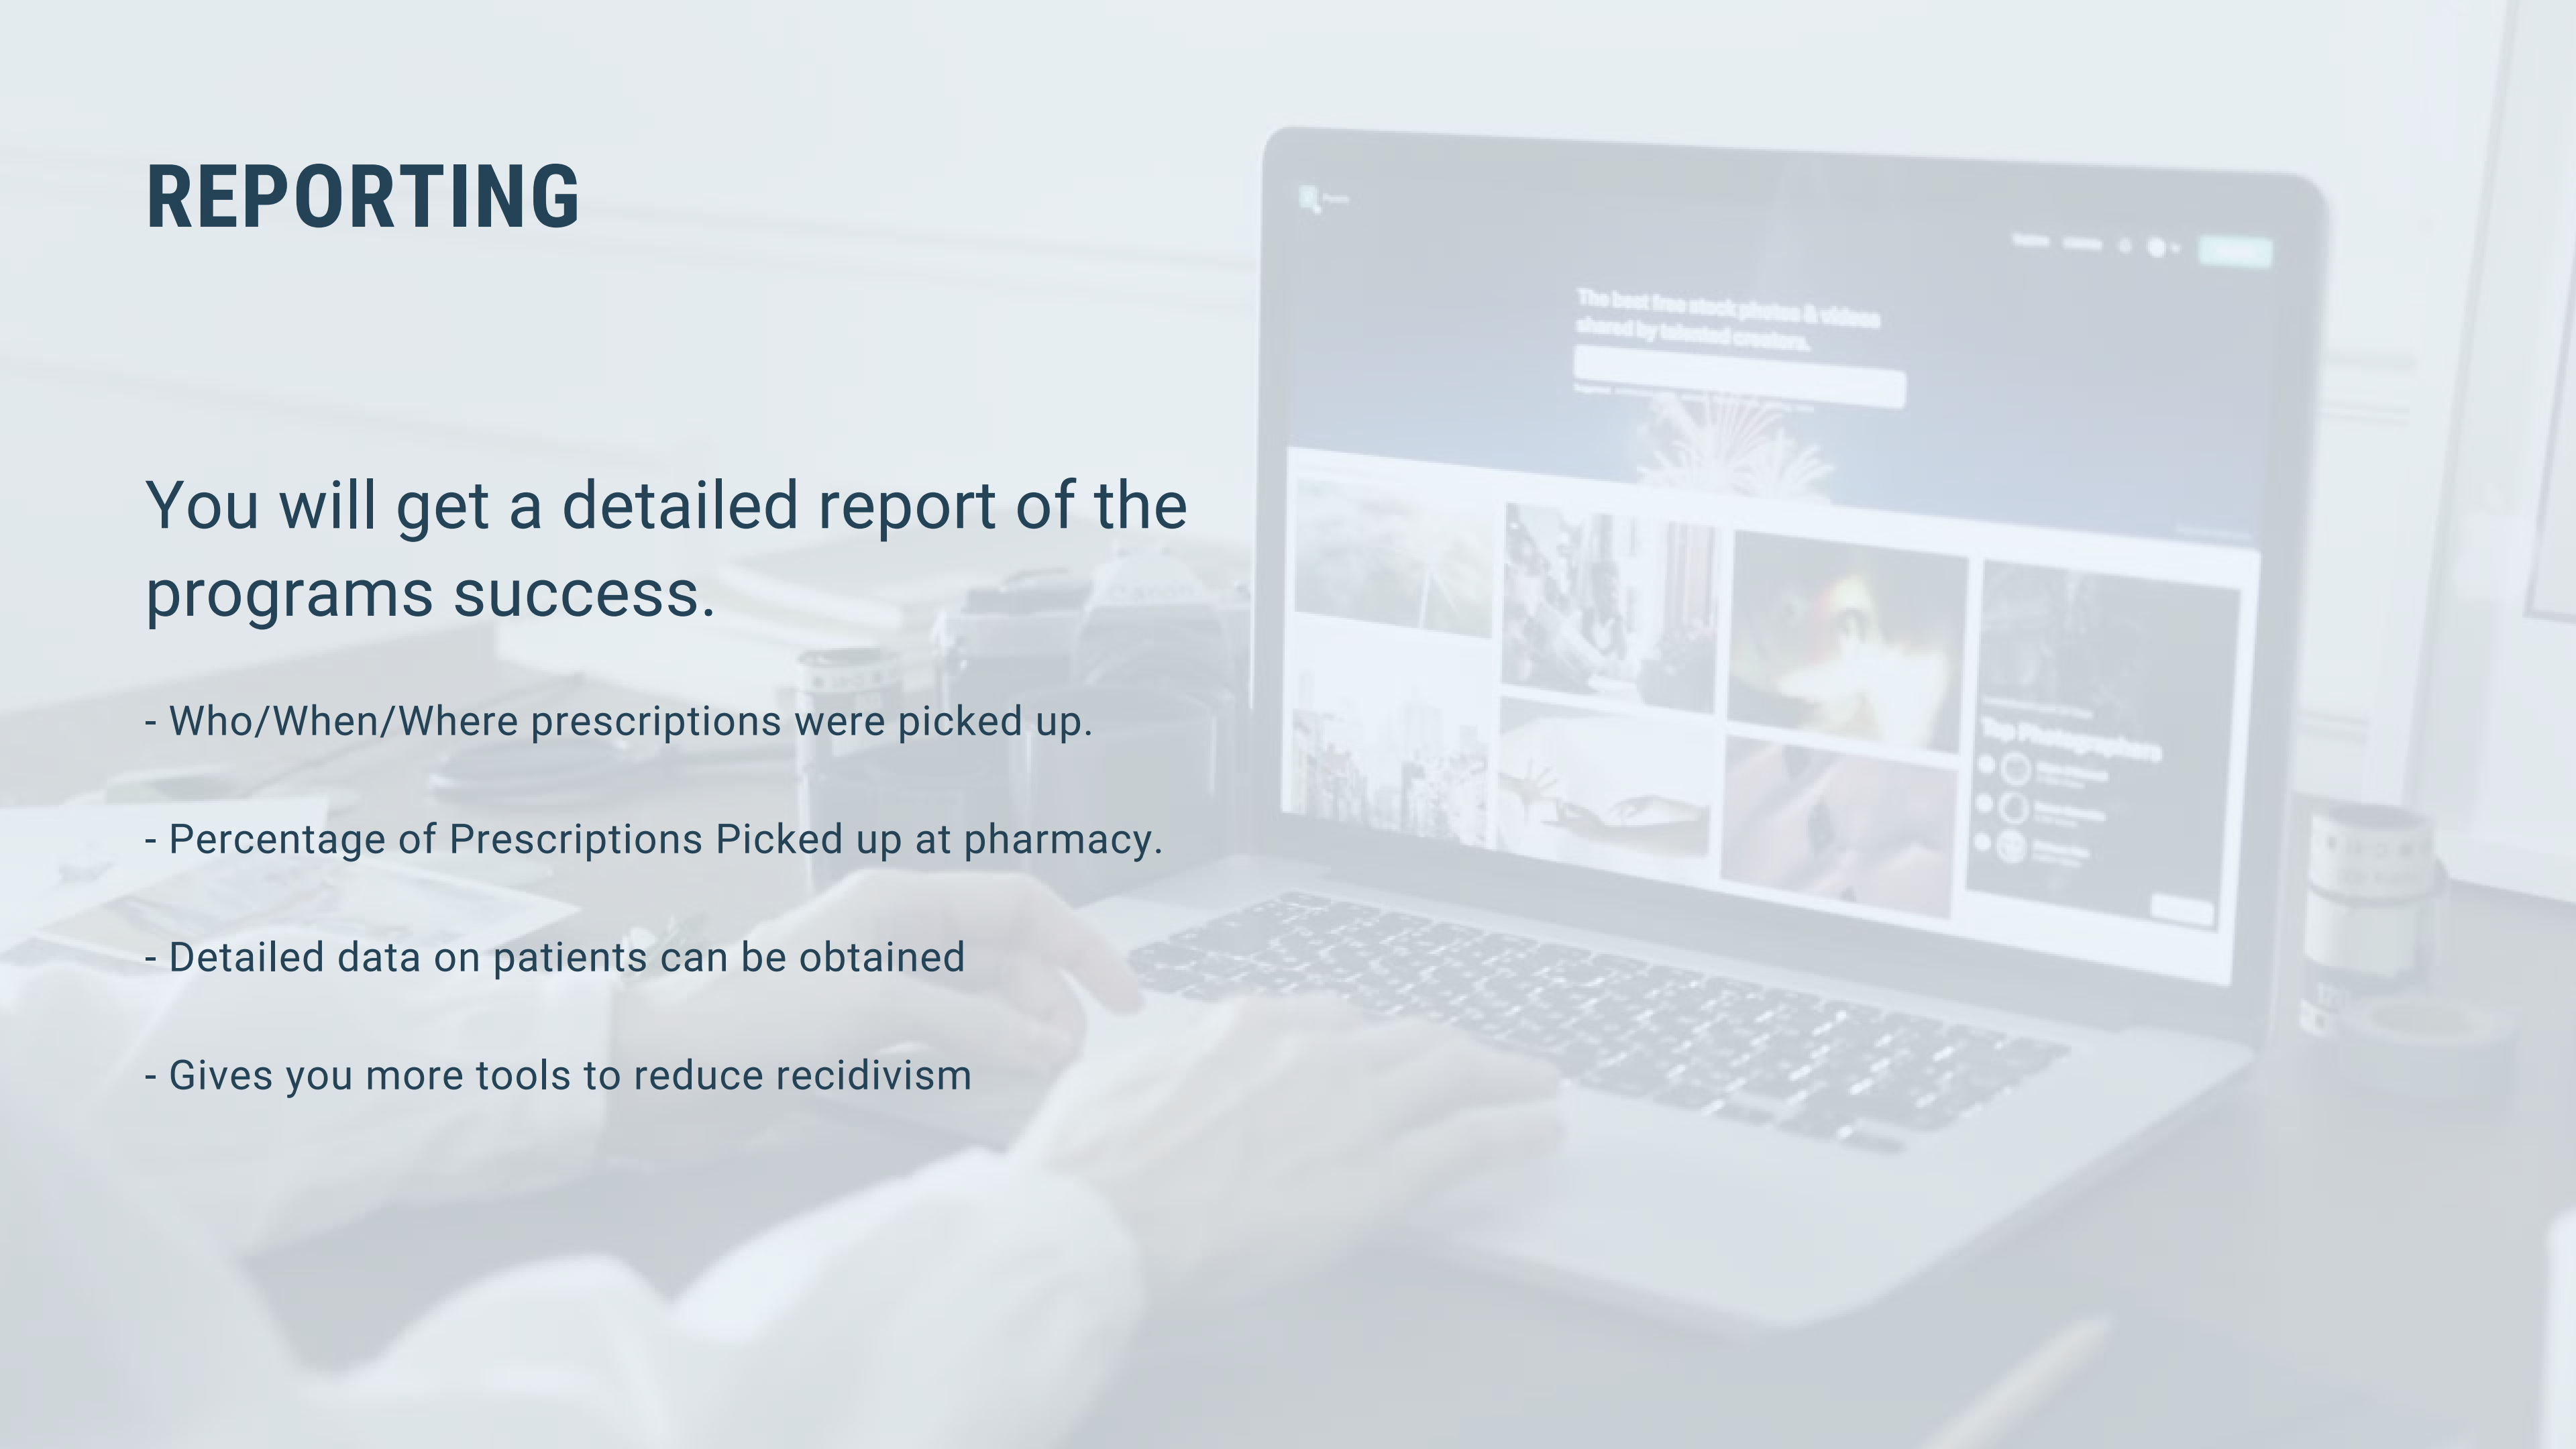

ABANDONED MEDICATIONS

Release medications abandoned in waste bins outside your facility create additional liability for you.

REPORTING

You will get a detailed report of the programs success.

- Who/When/Where prescriptions were picked up.
- Percentage of Prescriptions Picked up at pharmacy.
- Detailed data on patients can be obtained
- Gives you more tools to reduce recidivism

How can this program reduce Recidivism?

TAKE ACTION

With a report of who has picked up medication, you also know who hasn't. You can have case workers take action before someone reoffends

GET RELEASE MEDS TO MH PATIENTS

56% of state offenders have a mental illness. Individuals with untreated mental health may be at higher risk for future recidivism.

CONTINUUM OF CARE

It is important for recently released offenders to build relationships with their pharmacist in the community. This will be someone they can trust and ask questions about their medications.
